Our Home "Riv- erview,"

Is for sale. Mr. Elliott and family are to vacate it May 1st, and it is larger than we can occupy to advantage. It is by far the best home in this city and it is hard to duplicate (everything considered) in the United States for the money it costs.
The site is superb. It embraces ten full city lots 4 by 8 rods. The house and barn are every way right.
It is worthy the attention of any one seeking a first class home. As we before said, we will sell it and will give possession May 1st.

We have an architect working on plans for a smaller but equally good house, to be built for ourselves directly opposite "Riverview," and if we can sell this we shall have it built to occupy by July 15th.

This is an unusually attractive opportunity. Come and see us.

Yours very truly,

Geo. L. & Sarah H. Carrington.

Our Home Journal

"The Home" has been a source of much pleasure to us and that it has not been of much profit in way of money, cuts no figure. But owing to the fact that we are driven in our other lines of work and that we are to lose the editorial assistance of Mr. Elliott, we have concluded to abandon the publication of the same. Friends who have paid for 1891 can have their quarter by call-

BIG FIRE AT CHICAGO

Nearly a Million Dollars Goes up In Smoke

BLAZE ON THE WEST SIDE

Kohl & Middleton's Dining Room and Smyth's Big House Furnishing Establishment Burned—One Life Lost —Several Persons Hurt.

A LOSS OF OVER $900,000.
CHICAGO, April 13.—One of the fiercest and most disastrous fires the Chicago department has fought in many years swept through West Madison street Sunday afternoon. The big Smyth building that extends from Union half way to Halsted street was destroyed, and with it the contents of John M. Smyth's furniture house, the largest retail establishment in the world. All that is left of Kohl & Middleton's west side dime museum is a heap of bricks and charred timber. On the north side of Madison street, from Union street to the Halsted street, the block five buildings were destroyed.
Three of them tumbled down before the maelstrom of fire, and at one time the roof and a portion of the front of the theater building was burning so fiercely that everybody thought it would share the fate of its neighbors, but the firemen managed to save the structure, but in a seriously damaged condition.
The total loss is estimated at $900,000.
John M. Smyth & Co. alone will lose $800,000. The fire originated in the wagon shed of John M. Smyth & Co., directly in the rear of the museum.
Shortly after 4 o'clock the fire started, and from the first it was stubborn, almost resistless. Kohl & Middleton's museum, on the second floor, was filled with the usual crowd of Sunday visitors. They were scattered through the curio hall and the galleries, and a big audience was in one of the theaters watching a stage performance. The first intimation of danger came when every window cracked and shattered and flames leaped into the rooms. Where the fire came from no one seemed to know. There were shrieks and cries, people pushed over board and ran panic-stricken down the stairway and into the street. Before they reached the street with the first alarm a curling cloud of black smoke was rising from the rear of the building.

In the museum were specialty performers, actresses and "freaks," who did not rush out when the visitors beat their hasty retreat. Some wore their stage costumes and were hurriedly endeavoring to collect wardrobe and valuables. Within a brief minute they, too, were forced to leave, many without saving anything except the stage clothes they were wearing. The fat woman, the big-headed boy, the gypsies and the albino rushed into the street. Two or three policemen and several pedestrians who had gone into the museum at the first alarm attempted to save some of the property, but were driven back by blinding smoke through which they could see growing flames. Officer Sheehy succeeded in breaking open the cage which held the monkeys. The frightened and charred animals clambered out and several escaped, one down the fire escape.
Another jumped to the pavement and had his leg broken.

When the fire department threw the first stream the Smyth building was entirely in flames. The great building burned as though it was stored with naphtha and tinder. A mass of flame swept through the front and flung itself half way across the street.
Then it curled up and made the front a wall of roaring flames. Firemen retreated before the attacked by checking the spread of the flames. These efforts were successful.
At 8 o'clock last evening the two sides of West Madison street were tumbled and smoking ruins. A pall of heavy smoke rested over the city for miles in every direction. At the scene of the fire flames climbed over the roof and debris and sent streams of water tearing into the smoldering beds of flame.
The fire had been short but decisive.
The upper story of the three-story building on the northwest corner of Madison and Union streets caught fire at 4:45 o'clock. A few minutes after the flames lodged around the windows of the fifth story of the Haymarket theater building and were soon raging under the mansard roof. Just west of the Haymarket was the five-story building occupied by the People's Outfitting Company. Here also the windows were on fire, but no great damage was done.

The losses are distributed about as follows:
John M. Smyth, 150 to 160 Madison street, building and stock of furniture, $800,000; Kohl & Middleton, 154 Madison street, $60,000; Newly Bros., boots and shoes, 154 Madison street, $20,- 000; Adelbert Kaempfer, jewelry, 150 Madison street, $15,000; Baer Bros., hats, 157 Madison street, $8,000; M. Irrman, elegant and tobacco, 159 Madison street, $25,000; Hannah & Hogg, saloon, 161 Madison street (date), $5,000; 159 Madison street (date), $5,000; 161 to 169 Madison street (Haymarket building), $5,000; board of education property, in the rear of the Smyth block, $5,000; other losses, $5,000.

The insurance is light, John M.
Smyth carrying only about $125,000, while Kohl & Middleton and M. Irrman, the cigar dealer, carried no insurance whatever, having allowed their policies to expire without renewal, as they had intended moving into new buildings soon.

Alexander Grant, an employee in the museum, was seriously injured while making his escape from a third-story window. He crawled out on a sign and attempted to swing down by means of a wire. The wire broke under his weight, however, and he fell to the pavement, a distance of 50 feet, breaking his leg and fracturing his head and shoulder.

His injuries, however, are considered not necessarily fatal. About fifty persons, including two policemen, stood watching the flames from the corner of Union and Madison streets.
The officers were keeping the crowd back, and as it was pushing and swaying the wooden walk gave way and they fell about 10 feet.
Mrs. Bessie Higgins was probably fatally injured by the fall and was taken to her home, 195 Washington street.
Bernard Stoth had a leg broken at the same time and was removed to the Emergency hospital. After the firemen had got the flames under control and were playing upon the west end of the Smyth building Francis Gamble, aged about 10 years, accompanied by his mother, 195 Washington street, went around behind the building and into a shed used as a storehouse. The fire had left the place in a dangerous condition and as they were looking up at the lofty rear wall of the burned building Hanshaw noticed that the only thing that held up the roof of the fourth floor of the building through. He shouted a warning and started back just as the roof came down with a crash, burying young Gamble in the ruins. Gamble was quickly dug out and taken to the office of Dr. Mac Kay, 101 South Halsted street, where it was found that his injuries were probably fatal. His hips and left leg were broken.
It was thought also that his skull was fractured. A patrol wagon was summoned and he was taken to the county hospital, where he died at midnight.

It is not yet known whether the Haymarket theater where the fire broke out, but the audience was gotten out without confusion.

FIRE IN AN OMAHA HOTEL

OMAHA, Neb., April 13.—Fire started about 10 o'clock Sunday night in the kitchen of the Paxton hotel, situated on the fourth floor of the annex back of the main building. While the firemen were putting up ladders to reach the flames the wall fell out, carrying down four of No. 2 hose company's men. All were buried under a pile of hot brick and received serious injuries.

KILLED BY A MOB.

Two Murderers Confined in Jail Shot to Death by Masked Men.

SEALAND, Wash., April 13.—Forty masked men broke into jail here at 1 o'clock Saturday morning and shot to death John Rose and John Edwards, who were convicted of the murder of Hans Frederickson and his wife about a year ago. The men were confined in jail awaiting a new trial.
The murder was committed in cold blood, and was for the purpose of obtaining possession of a piece of land on which Frederick-son was living. Edward Gibson and George Rose were also charged with assisting in the murder. Gibson was acquitted. George Rose was convicted of murder in the first degree, but afterward escaped from jail. The mob overpowered the jailer and going to the cell where the prisoners were confined riddled their bodies with bullets. The mob then quietly dispersed.

NUMBERED WITH THE DEAD.

Ex-Gov. Waterman, of California, Falls a Victim to Pneumonia.

SAN DIEGO, Cal., April 13.—Ex-Gov.
Waterman died at 7:30 Sunday evening of pneumonia after a brief illness.
[R. W. Waterman was born in Fairfield, Herkimer county, N. Y., in 1825. When very young he moved to Syracuse, Ill., with his parents, where he grew up and engaged in mercantile business. He came to California in 1850 and engaged in mining for two years. He returned to Illinois but came back to California in 1873, locating at San Bernardino. In 1880 he received the republican nomination for lieutenant governor and was the only republican elected. Washington Bartlett (dem.) was elected governor, but died soon after taking office. Ex-Gov.
Waterman died last January. He leaves a wife and several children.]

Leaving Kansas for Topolobampo.

AMULEN, Kan., April 13.—Another large party of Topolobampo colonists shipped their goods Saturday night and leave to-day for the west coast of Mexico. Others will join them in western Kansas, and 200 in all will make the trip. They take their entire possessions, which are small, and will never return. The company of 800 that went last fall is digging ditches in the interior. They are still living on provisions taken with them.

Desire to Avoid the Hot Weather.

PHILADELPHIA, April 13.—If Senator Quay's plan is carried out the national republican convention will be held late in April or early in May of next year.
The chairman of the national committee says that he will tender the committee together in November and that the members will vote for his scheme. The idea is that the weather is too warm in June or July to hold national conventions.

Live Stock Frozen to Death.

DENVER, Col., April 13.—Reports received here from the southern Utah agency are to the effect that the Indians have lost nearly all their stock by the recent heavy snowstorms. The snow covered the ground at a depth of four feet and horses and cattle by the thousands starved to death.

Col. Ballingall's Funeral.

OTTUMWA, Ia., April 13.—The remains of Col. P. G. Ballingall arrived at midnight Saturday and were met by a thousand people. The cause of his death was fever, induced by sunstroke in the tropics. The funeral on Tuesday will be attended by a vast number.

Associates Bankers Arrested.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., April 13.—Criminal prosecution has been begun against the members of the firm of The Schwartz & Co., bankers, who failed for $750,000 a few weeks ago. Saturday night three warrants were issued against each member of the firm, C. Brock, Abraham Theodore Schwartz, W. T. F. Fenneke and F. Janssen, charging them with embezzlement, conspiracy to defraud and obtaining money under false pretenses.
All were arrested and gave bail.

MATRANGA WAS THE JUDGE

The Confession Made By Manuel Politz Before The Lynching Now Made Public, Shows The Murderers Were Chosen by Lot—Other Disclosures.

POLITZ'S CONFESION MADE PUBLIC.
NEW ORLEANS, April 13.—The grand jury in its forthcoming report upon the Hennessy murder, the subsequent miscarriage of justice and the resulting popular vengeance upon the Italian suspects in the parish prison will for the first time probably give to the public the confession of Manuel Politz, one of the lynched prisoners. Early in the case he evidently made up his mind to be a traitor to his comrades and earn some clemency by betraying them. He held aloof from them in prison and in court, brooded much in solitude, and soon after the trial began clamored wildly for the privilege of unburdening himself of the secret which weighed upon him.
The statement he made never reached the jury. The state claimed that while Politz incriminated others he protested his own innocence, and besides, there were contradictions in his confession which would destroy its value. There was strong evidence against Politz and it was preferred to hold him prisoner. Politz's confession was made to the district attorney. About the same story was told to his own attorney and portions of it were told at various times to those who came in contact with him. Said he:
"I had joined a certain society of my countrymen, the president of which was Charles Matranga. This society, I supposed, was formed for the purpose of my countrymen Machea, Matranga and others were prominent members. On a Saturday night I was at a meeting of the society at which Matranga, Machea and others were present. It was stated that the purpose of the meeting was to decide who were to kill Chief Hennessy. The names of the members were placed in a box by numbers and ten were drawn therefrom. These ten men were notified to meet and arrange the murder and means of carrying out the work about midnight, 1890. I was asked to carry a sack of guns from the meeting room to the house of the shoemaker, Monasterio, near the river, near Basin. I refused to do so, not knowing at the time why the guns were to be taken there.
Matranga was there and said he would carry the sack. Two later meetings were held near the Payday market. I am not sure whether the money was distributed at these meetings or at Duff's.

The plan agreed upon was that on the night of October 15 everyone was to meet at Monasterio's place; the number of men was to be about 100 and was to be on the look-out for Chief Hennessy. He was to wait on Hampart street, and when he made sure that the chief was coming he was to give the signal by blowing a whistle. I was to go to Monasterio and run rapidly out of the door and when Monasterio's was to give the peculiar Italian whistle. When the whistle was given by the boy on the night of the 15th of October, Monasterio opened the door and said to the others: "The chief, the chief." The men stepped out and saw Hennessy coming. Matranga said to me: "Go and stand on the right side of the street and shoot. The chief, the chief." I went and stood on the right side of the street and shot. I did not know whether I was killing until the following Sunday morning.
I heard of Hennessy's shooting for the first time on that Sunday morning when my landlord, John, was reading the paper.

In answer to a question how he could know any of these things if he was not present he replied that Monasterio told him about it. "I took no part in the shooting," he said, "and did not know that there was any intention on the part of anybody to kill Mr. Hennessy.
On Sunday morning I arose and did not go anywhere in particular, remaining around the house all day. I could not see the chief. I was a sore arm. I am innocent and my conscience is as white as the wall."

About the time of Mr. Theard's appointment as counsel the great change in Politz had commenced, and he was suspicious of everybody and particularly of the defendants and their counsel. Politz was very quiet and confession. Politz's actions resulted in Mr. Theard's withdrawal and the appointment of John Flynn, a young criminal lawyer. Through Mr. Flynn it was arranged that Politz should make his statement in court. When the hired brute, the strongest armed army of the Republic and his staff and to Gen-Longstreet and Buckner and to ex-Gov. James A. Beaver, of Pennsylvania.
The ceremonies will begin at 9 o'clock and will be of only moderate length. The details of the arrangements will be made public as they are perfected. There will be no parade.

Inspectors and clerks of election cannot be so careful in making their returns of election to the city and county clerk. Informalities may at some critical time prove a source of much trouble and litigation. City Clerk Bates informs The Gazette that of the eight precinct returns made of the election held last Tuesday, seven were left in his office unsealed, the poll-books and returns being open. Several returns were made in like manner to the county clerk. Quite six months ago, when a recount of the vote cast in Rock county was asked, and while all the returns were under seal, it was a local democratic paper that sang out "Who knows whether or not these returns have been doctored to suit circumstances?" How much more force such an accusation made with unsealed returns? Such returns ought not to be received, and election officers should be more careful in making them.

John R. Ryan, late democratic candidate for street commissioner, is dissatisfied with the result of the election, he having been defeated by twenty-nine votes. He is now considering the question of petitioning for a recount of the ballots, especially the ballots cast in the First precinct of the second ward. If Mr. Ryan or any other candidate has reasons to believe the count incorrect it is not only the privilege but the duty of such candidates to call for a recount. And right here, would it not be just and right to amend our election laws so that all ballots shall be returned to a certain board and recounted, whether the election of any particular candidate is disputed or not. If such measures were adopted there would be no necessity to question the counting of the votes.

The Brooklyn friends of Miss Anna Dickinson are meeting with considerable success in their efforts to secure a sufficient sum of money to enable her to enjoy a needed time of rest and treatment at some well-known health resort. They have received assistance from residents of many cities, but still need funds to accomplish their purpose. They have made a new appeal to the friends of Miss Dickinson throughout the country and expect soon to be enabled to insure for her a long residence at some place where she can be treated by good physical means under favorable surroundings.

Speaking of the resignation of United States Senator Edmunds, of Vermont, his veteran colleague, Senator Morrill, says that it was not made for political reasons but on account of Mr. Edmunds' health and that of his daughter. The various candidates for the coming vacancy are discussed frankly, but Mr. Morrill does not indicate his preference among the many able men mentioned for the honor. The senator has ideas of his own on the subject of resignation, and bantling says that he himself will resign just as soon as he is unable to do a good honest day's work.

Oscar Harrison seems to be undecided concerning his future course. A few days ago he announced that he would leave Chicago forever; now he says he intends to stay here two years more. The Chicago Mail remarks with a sniff that so far as precedents go Benedict Arnold went abroad and that Judas Iscariot hanged himself.

"I can't see how it is," said John R. Ryan, the democratic candidate for street commissioner, "that I should run so far behind Dr. Robinson and Roy Holloway over in the First precinct of the Second ward." Perhaps a recount of the vote, and a careful inspection of each ballot will satisfy the gentleman.

The Minneapolis Tribune says that "Miss Ball of Snowshoe, Pa., ate three quarts of peanuts and went to bed and died." Last week that event was located at Bangor, Me., and it was claimed that Leslie Carr drank three quarts of whiskey and died. Let's head off the wanderer.

The Recorder will find it a difficult task to convince the people that there is even a respectable number of tax payers, either on Quality hill or in the valley, who favor disturbing ward boundaries. The last election demonstrated that to divide a small city into constituencies would be a dangerous experiment.

At Kenton, Hardin county, Ohio, a quiet and orderly mob broke into the county jail, dragged forth a prisoner who had not been tried in any court, and lynched him. The fact that no New Orleans paper put a big display head on it shows the forgiving disposition of the southern editor.

On Sunday evening Chicago experienced the most disastrous fire which has occurred in that city since the memorable fire of 1871. Over one million dollars' worth of property was destroyed, full particulars of which will be found in our telegraph columns.

The municipal election has been held and the results declared, and yet street Commissioner Hawthorn keeps right on cleaning up the streets and the growler on South River street has ceased to growl.

DEATH'S HARVEST.

Undertakers and Grave-Diggers Overworked in New York.

NEW YORK, April 13.—There were a remarkable number of funerals Sunday. From early in the day until late in the afternoon the thoroughfares leading to the Long Island ferries were crowded with hearses and funeral parties. At a low estimate 500 corpses were taken across the river for interment. The road from Long Island City to Calvary cemetery was black with funeral corteges. The number of funerals in Brooklyn were far beyond the usual Sunday average, and there was a greater demand for hearses than could be supplied. Few could be secured from this city owing to the demand here from the same causes, and those owned in the Long Island towns were sent for. The streets of Brooklyn were filled with processions passing to the various cemeteries, and so many coaches were used that in some cases the prices were increased. Extra large numbers of men were employed at grave digging in the cemeteries on Saturday in spite of the storm, and many bodies had to be placed in the receiving vaults on account of the lack of time to make graves ready.

The number of deaths last week in Brooklyn was 630 and the largest number in one day was 114 on Friday. The number of deaths last week which was 138 more than in the week before, was the largest ever known in Brooklyn. While only 16 were directly attributed to the grip, there were 163 from pneumonia, 60 from bronchitis, 48 from consumption, 19 from diphtheria, in all of which the grip might have been a secondary cause and in many of which it hastened a fatal ending. In one week of 1890, when the grip was at its height, the number of deaths was 104, and this had not been exceeded even in heated terms in summer when infant mortality is greatest.

Nearly Frantic.
Has it ever been your experience to be brought into frequent contact with a person excessively nervous? If so, you must be aware that trivial causes, unnoticed by the vigorous, drives a nervous individual to the verge of distraction. It is as unnecessary to particularize these as it is impossible to guard against them.

The root of the evil is usually imperfect digestion and assimilation. To assist these functions, and through their renewed, complete discharge to reinforce weak nerves, in conjunction with other portions of the physical organism, is within the power of Host's Stomach Bitters, systematically and continuously used. There is no disappointment here, no matter what or how grievous the failures of so called tonics. No sedative or opiate—good both—can compare with this with this invigorating nerve tonic. Constipation, biliousness, malaria, rheumatism, kidney troubles are cured by it.

Rumors That the "Vestibule" Will Cease to Roll Through the City of Janesville

The Story Stoutly Denied by the Officials of the Chicago & Northwestern R.R.

The Say that Such a Change is Not Contemplated and Deny the Report.

The Limited Trains May Run Through Fond du Lac Instead of Janesville.

Will the Chicago & Northwestern road run the vestibule train through Fond du Lac and Milwaukee and leave Janesville in the lurch? Rumor has it that they will although Janesville railroad officials deny it and say that the idea is preposterous.

The proposed line from Princeton to Wisconsin Valley Junction which makes the change possible, has been surveyed and the line is already distributed. When the short spur between the two places is completed, railroad men say that the 9:05 "vestibule" will run from Chicago to Fond du Lac, from Fond du Lac to Wisconsin Valley Junction, and from there to St. Paul.

The officials of the road deny that they have heard anything of the proposed change, and say that the distance between Chicago and St. Paul would be much longer by way of Fond du Lac than by way of Janesville. But such a rumor has been started, whether it is true or not, and much comment has ensued.

The distance, as can be seen by reference to a map, would not be so much greater by the proposed route as it would seem, and at the same time the change would run the limited train through a number of good sized cities, Waukegan, Illinois, Racine, Kenosha, Milwaukee, Fond du Lac and other cities are on the line. The train would also go through Evanston and Highland Park, Illinois. The distance from Chicago to Wisconsin Valley Junction by the proposed route would be nearly the same as from Chicago to Elroy by the present line. The branch between Princeton and Wisconsin Valley Junction is but fifty miles.

PLENTY OF AMUSEMENTS.

Inshavogue at the Myers To-Night-May Bretonne Company at Lappin's.

The New York Herald of June 14 says: It's strange what strides the stage has made during the past five years, not to speak of a century. Business men have now taken a hand in the pie, and find it a very profitable outside investment. Barrett, during his grand struggle through numerous difficulties, was backed by some of the solid business men of London, who recognizing his ability during his season in London, saw a chance for a good investment. And now a few business men of New York have taken hold of a comedy drama called "Casey's Troubles," which they will put on with wonderful effects. They have a monstrous tank in which takes place a river scene of real water. The tank contracts and expands to fit the size of any stage, and during their trip across the country, prior to their seven weeks run in San Francisco, they take in some of the minor towns and thus make the journey to the Pacific with more ease.

Inshavogue, W. J. Florence's romantic Irish drama, will hold the boards at the Grand Opera House this evening. Lottie Winnett heads the company. Special scenery and the great tank scene are to be used.

Leland T. Powers will appear at the Myers Grand Opera House May 1, in "David Garrick."

The May Bretonne company open a week's engagement at Lappin's Opera House tonight.

CROPS ARE BACKWARD

What the Weekly Weather Bulletin Says.

HOW MUCH RAIN FELL

Damp, Cold Weather Retarded Farmers and Farm Work—Severe Frost in the Northern Part of the State—Some Plowing is Already Done.

The weekly weather-crop bulletin of the Wisconsin weather and crop service for the week ending Saturday, April 11, contains considerable valuable information. The report of the bureau is compiled from the reports of the four signal stations in this county, the Janesville report being furnished by E. B. Heimstreet.

The past week was too cold and wet, and farm work has in consequence been retarded. In the western and northern portions of the state a few days of sunshiny weather prevailed but the temperature continued low. In the eastern and southern counties there was less sunshine than usual with a temperature averaging 7 degrees below the daily normal for the week.

The rain of Thursday and Friday was heaviest in the southeastern counties, averaging between one and a half and two inches, but rain and wet mow were quite general on those dates throughout the state, the section receiving the least precipitation being the north central counties. The average precipitation for the week for the northern half of the state was five-eighths of an inch and in the southern half one one-tenth of an inch.

Severe frosts occurred in nearly all the northern counties, being lighter in the southern counties. There has been no material injury reported to winter grains from the frosts.

The season continues backward by about two weeks throughout the state, but it is a question whether the almost unchanged conditions of the crops in comparison to last week are not more favorable than had warm sunshine weather prevailed, since the retardation of growth at this stage means a gain of a week in passing a period when a thaw might be followed by a damaging frost.

There are a few cases of ploughing and seeding of oats reported from the southern counties, but the very great majority of the correspondents from these counties place the date of general seeding at about April 20, although with bright, warm, sunshiny weather, for the next few days, seeding might begin on uplands on April 15. The soil is thoroughly saturated in all sections, and lowlands cannot be worked for a week or ten days.

Continued favorable reports are received regarding winter grains. Wherever investigations have been made, wheat and favorable reports have been received.

The frost is leaving the ground rapidly in the southern counties and many sections report frost entirely out of the ground. As we advance northward to the south-central counties "frost not yet out of the ground" is reported, until reaching the extreme northern counties the ground is frozen to a depth of 18 inches, with snow fourteen inches deep in Forest and adjoining counties. There is less snow on the ground in the north-western and western counties, and in the west-central counties it is rapidly disappearing, some old sheltered drifts along fences and the north side of hills alone remaining.

Stock continues to be reported in good condition, but a shortage of feed is reported in some localities. A few local damaging washouts are reported from several of the southern counties by the heavy rains of Thursday and Friday.

HONOR FOR O. E. KIMBERLEY.

The "Evening Wisconsin" tells how he sang before Sherman.

The Evening Wisconsin published a picture of O. E. Kimberley and an extended article on Mr. Kimberley's rendition of the song, "Sherman's March to the Sea," before Sherman at Goldsboro, North Carolina. The article speaks highly of the former Janesville printer, both of his leadership of the band and the way he sang the great song "Gears" the old commander.

UNDER DEATH'S SHADOW.

Remains Sent Home.

The remains of O. Henry Flapp were put on board the Chicago train at 6:15 last evening, and taken to the home of his parents in Dubuque, Iowa. Funeral services were held at the boarding house, 205 North Bluff street, conducted by Rev. H. O. Lorenz, of Oresco, Iowa, assisted by Rev. F. Howarth. A number of students from the Valentine school of telegraphy were present, and accompanied the remains to the cars. Rev. Mr. Lorenz was in Dubuque attending a conference, and chanced to be at the young man's parents when the dispatch announcing the death was received. The father being sick, Rev. Lorenz volunteered to come to this city and care for the remains. He arrived here late Saturday evening, and returned last evening with the body.

Grace Caldo.

Mrs. Grace Caldo, aged eighty-three, died at her home on Rock Prairie Sunday morning. Her death was caused by the infirmities consequent on her advanced years. She had been a patient sufferer for a year or more. She came to Rock Prairie with her family in 1871, from Kirkcaldy, Scotland. She had long been a member of the Presbyterian church, and in her life did much good in church work, and drew about her a large circle of sincere friends. Her husband preceded her across the dark valley some two years ago. She leaves a family of five children—Mrs. Andrew Eretson, of Milwaukee; Mrs. Mary Caldo, Thomas, James and William Caldo, all residing at the family home on Rock Prairie.

The funeral will be held to-morrow afternoon at one o'clock and the interment will be made at the Johnstown cemetery.

The Bloomington Gazette says of Dr. Brewer's work: "The pictures presented were magnified equal to the largest telescope power, and as clearly defined. There were ten movable astronomical diagrams of the highest order, showing the wonderful phenomena of the solar system, five astronomical paintings without motion; fourteen diagrams of special astronomical wonders; five views of the sun and its spots; five of the moon showing mountain craters, ocean beds, etc.; six geological views and other photographic views from the largest telescopes and best artists. The large audience was greatly pleased and instructed."

Mrs. Thomas Welsh.

Mrs. Thomas Welsh died at her home on Madison street at 6 o'clock Sunday afternoon. The funeral will be held from the home at 2:30 o'clock Wednesday afternoon.

Played Ball in Overcoats.

The first game of base ball played this season in Janesville came off yesterday. O. L. Nodine, of the Singer Sewing Machine Company, got up the game and the boys had as much fun as they would have had with the thermometer at eighty above. Several robbing and blue-birds chirped as they saw the boys play ball because it was to them a sure sign of spring.

How to Play Ball.

The popular "Buck" Ewing, captain of the New York's, has written an article for the boy's department of "The Ladies' Home Journal" for June, on the "Ins and Outs of Base Ball." In which the famous catcher will tell how to play the game, how to form a nine; the hardest positions and how to fill them; how to throw a ball, etc. This is Ewing's first article, and it is said to be the best which has ever been written for boys on the great national game.

PARENTS IN SUSPENSE.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Parmley's Hour of Anguish

THOUGHT THEIR BOY DEAD

Searching Parties Exploring The River for Eight-Year-Old Orion Parmley's Body. While the Youngster Was Playing at One of the Neighbors.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Parmley suffered untold agony for an hour yesterday evening. Suspicion that their darling boy was at the bottom of Rock River nearly distracted the parents, and searching parties dragged the river at the Court street bridge.

It was nearly six o'clock when a little son of Conductor J. H. Dower, with tears streaming down his face, rushed up the steps at Parmley's home on South Main street and told Mrs. Parmley that he had seen her eight-year-old son, Orion, fall into the river at the bridge.

"He fell through a hole in the sidewalk and I couldn't see him any more," the boy explained as fast as he could after a long run. Searching parties were at once put on foot and soon John Keenan, Thomas Holleran and Thomas Concanan were searching the river bed with long-handled rakes.

Many persons discredited the Dower boy's story—the claimant that he was half a block away when he saw young Parmley fall in.

While the searching party was at work the agonized father and mother were driving about the third ward looking for their boy as they did not think that he had fallen in the river. At last they found him at Albert Kavelogde's residence on South Main street and the two hundred people who had congregated at the bridge dispersed.

Excitement ran high for a time, and the current is very swift at the place where the boy was supposed to have fallen in, and the searchers were of the opinion that the body had been whirled far away from the scene of the supposed accident.

Parmley works for Daniel Ryan in his South Main street livery stable.

While coupling cars at Palestine his hand was caught between the draw bar and deadwood on a freight car, and badly mangled. Two fingers were amputated, and it is feared that he will lose the other two, as they were also badly crushed.

HE WORKED RACINE TOO.

The Man Who Victimised Ald. Lutz Thought to be in Racine.

Racine authorities have W. M. Boardman in jail charged with forgery. Marshal Ahobson is of the opinion that Boardman is the same fellow that forged John Soulmans name to a seventeen dollar check and thereby victimised Alderman Angust Lutz.

Boardman acknowledged that he is going under an assumed name. The Janesville forger went under the name of George B. Langdon.

A. T. WILKINS BADLY NURT.

He Was Kicked in the Chest Saturday by a Horse.

A. T. Wilkins, the South Main street picture dealer, was badly injured Saturday by a kick from his horse. He was in the backyard at his home on Prospect avenue with his horse, when the animal reared up and kicked him in the chest. Dr. Lyons attended him, and pronounced his injuries as very painful, but not necessarily dangerous.

He was able to sit up today, but will not be able to be about for some time.

Happy Hostess.

Wm. Timmons, postmaster of Janesville, writes: "Electric Bitters has done more for me than all other medicines combined, for it has freed me from kidney and liver trouble." Ganser, hardware merchant, same town, says: "Electric Bitters is just the thing for a man who is all run down and don't care whether he lives or dies; he found new strength, good appetite, and felt just like he had a new life." Only 50 cents a bottle, at F. Sherer & Co's drugstore.
